good which this club has accomplished, and am greatly gratified that my life has been spared until this time, and that I am permitted to share in the blessings which have flowed from its labors. Ere long all of its present members will have passed away, and the earth, but I trust the club will live on and on and prosper in the future as in the past; and I hope we may all meet at last in those celestial realms.

Where parings of friends shall never come again.

President Wilder's remarks were listened to with much interest, and were heartily and warmly applauded.

OTHER SPEECHES.

Gov. George H. Smith, the first gentleman called up. He replied in fitting terms, paying his tribute of respect to the venerable president and his associates. He said that the speech might congratulate itself upon the speaker, and was well deserved. Mr. Smith made a great allusion to the ladies, saying that woman had adorned every walk of life from the day when God gave Eve to Adam, and he then directed the speaker, Dr. George H. Smith, who had called upon to respond to "The Ladies," said he did not know what peculiar responsibility he had to the ladies. He related an anecdote of a man in the West who remained alone because there was no woman to whom he could confide his secret, and hoped that at the next anniversary of the club there would be more to choose from than on this occasion.

Dr. George H. Smith, who had never expected to see them, and prophesied that at the celebration of the 250th anniversary of Harvard University, two years hence, ladies would be invited to the platform for the first time. He thought it only right to be invited that women go wherever they desire. Dr. Ellis concluded by reading a letter from James F. Parsons, containing a note from Hon. M. W. Wilder, and to Mr. Charles O. Whitmore, whose services as secretary were highly extolled. Dr. S. K. Lothrop referred to the forty years of hard, affectionate, uninterupted kindness that he extended to Mr. Wilder and himself. Rev. Dr. M. W. Wilder, himself, spoke of the indomitable and unabashed pluck of Mr. Wilder, who, at four score, was still another of the pillars of our national culture, and likened him to a second Antaeus, as much as he seemed to gather strength from the ground. Judge French said he had brought forward a bill of his own.

"With the gods live thy days," was the motto that though they lived to fourscore and ten, when the gods love never grow old. Charles M. Hovey died in some pleasing remembrance of his birth and early life, especially cultivated vegetables, not the largest, but the cleanest and best. Mr. E. F. Waters will reply to several styling him as a "famous author" and as a "man at the mining advertisements in the Advertiser," saying if gentlemen knew the many that were rejected they would pardon some of the slips of a newspaper reporter. Rev. Dr. L. C. Jackson, of Boston, a member of the Massachusetts Board of Agriculture spoke briefly, and the exercises were appropriately brought to a close by singing "Auld Lang Syne." Mr. Hovey leading at the request of Mr. Wilder.

CONGRESS.

In the Senate, the bill extending the time for the completion of the Northern Pacific Railroad was reported, with amendments, and struck out the provision for underwriters' losses was adopted—38 to 19. The motion was then made to indefinitely postpone the bill until the session was adjourned.

A motion to recommit the bill was lost. The House bill for the equipment of the Government Arctic expedition was reported. In the House, the debate was continued on the question of permitting further discussion of the special deficiency bill, but without any decision the matter was laid aside.

The House then took up the joint resolution relating to the investigation of the agricultural interests, and an amendment was offered, looking to an inquiry into the need of revising the tariff, the same to come up again at a future day. An evening session was held to consider the bill relating to the Government of the District of Columbia.

New mining legislation is proposed. It is the opinion of his committee that the bill in the course of its remarks, holding up a specimen of his camellias raised from seed and one of his latest varieties; the one an orange-red, the second a salmon color, as Colone.

Other exercises in a systematic work of art. Hon. John Cummings spoke of the club's influence upon the Horticultural Society and upon market produce. It was the opinion of his committee that specifically cultivated vegetables, not the largest, but the cleanest and best. Mr. E. F. Waters will reply to several styling him as a "famous author" and as a "man at the mining advertisements in the Advertiser," saying if gentlemen knew the many that were rejected they would pardon some of the slips of a newspaper reporter. Rev. Dr. L. C. Jackson, of Boston, a member of the Massachusetts Board of Agriculture spoke briefly, and the exercises were appropriately brought to a close by singing "Auld Lang Syne." Mr. Hovey leading at the request of Mr. Wilder.

LEGISLATURE.

By a suspension of the rules, the bill giving the New York and New England road the right of buying the twenty-five acre and the twelve acre lots on the South Boston Flats was passed through all its stages. The real contest between the railroad and the Ames party, it is said, will come off in the Senate. According to the report of the committee on prorogation, the Legislature will complete all its business and be ready to be prorogued on Friday of the current week. The resolve was passed to be engrossed in the House, sending a gratuity of five thousand dollars to the widow of J. B. Smith, the caterer. The double taxation bill was discussed in the Senate, and was finally carried a third reading. The prison committee reported a resolution authorizing the management and conduct of the officials of the State Prison.

The resolution to make the State printing contract was changed so as to provide that one of the arbitrators shall be a member of the Governor's Council, appointed by the Governor.

The Legislature has informed through a committee that it can adjourn on Friday of the current week.

The wife of Mr. Gladstone, on their arrival in London, is to be presented with a bouquet of flowers from all parts of the world.

The West Point cadets every one explain satisfactorily where they were on the night the outrage was committed on colored cadet Whittaker.

The State delegate political conventions are now engrossing a great deal of public attention, their reports taking up much of the space in the daily papers.

Montreal experienced something of a money panic on Tuesday, in consequence of the Bank of Montreal declaring a four in stead of five per cent. semi-annual.

The price of raw cotton has receded fully two cents per pound, and the supply in hand and in future is so large as to make low prices the rule for some time to come.

A bill is under discussion in the Mexican Congress to grant unconditional amnesty to all persons engaged in local revolutions since the restoration of the republic.

The Liberal leaders of Great Britain have held a conference, and are in general understanding regarding the course to be pursued when the Queen's summons arrives.

The latest rumor is that efforts are making to secure Col. Ingoldsby to defend Freeman, the Pocasset murderer, the understanding being that the case will soon come to trial.

The South Boston Flats constitute, at the present time, the most prominent question before the public, upon its decision depends very much of the future commercial prosperity of the City and State.

It is objected, and it is said effectually, to the repeal of the law which extended the wood-pulp patent, that rights have vested under the law, and therefore that it cannot be constitutionally repealed.

A Committee of the City Council has at length come to a decision regarding a location for a Court House. The place selected is in Peabody Square, beginning with the corner of Somerset street.

The debate on the Geneva Award Bill in the Senate is ended, and in the course of it some very strange opinions have been expressed, together with some stranger reasons still in support of them.

If Prince Gortschakoff, of Russia, dies, as is now momentarily expected, his death, taken in connection with the threatened resignation of Bismarck, the ministerial crisis at Vienna, and the recent popular defeat of Beauforton, will work a striking change in the affairs of Europe, sufficient in fact, to revolutionize the whole European system. It would thus be easy to see in a singular concatenation of political occurrences the workings of Providence in the affairs of men. Although it is not to be considered that the retirement of these men, with Andrassy of Austria, from public affairs would be equivalent in any sense to a menace of war, it would certainly signify that the existing reliance of peace were somewhat removed, and that no one at present knows what will serve in their place in the adjustment and balance of European affairs.

Gortschakoff, the Russian Chancellor, is eighty-two years old. He made his reputation during the Crimean war, when he kept Austria quiet. And it is his special glory that, amid all the threatenings of political questions, he has maintained a superb record since the Crimean war, however, and the other powers of Europe. His honor has been secure in his keeping, and his prestige in diplomacy has not been lowered or lost. We are not so soon to forget, either, that it was to his personal efforts that Europe was restrained, through the influence of Russia, from engaging in direct interference with our war for the Union. The imperial policy of Russia as it now exists will unquestionably come to an end with the death of the man who conceived and established it among the other powers.
